DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to the communication 10/14/2005. No preliminary amendments to the claims were filed. Claims 1 – 35 are currently pending.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1 – 35 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1 – 12 of U.S. Patent No. 5,754,501. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the instant case, all elements of claims 1 – 35 correspond to the claims of 1 – 12 of the patent claims, except in the instant claims the elements "an acquisition control step of controlling the acquisition of a fifth data string containing first data required for reconstructing the second data string into the first data string" is referred in the patent claims as "a recoding medium in which the information is stored" and "control means for storing the information on the recording medium".

Patent claims recite "transmission means transmits the information within a playback time for the information of the specified portion" which encompasses the instant application claims "zone is determined so that a total playback time or a total recording time of the fourth data string in said at least one zone is within a predetermined period of time". Thus patent claims anticipate the instant claims.

Claims of the instant application are anticipated by patent claims in that the patent claims contains all the limitations of the instant application. Claims of the instant application therefore is not patentably distinct from the earlier patent claims and as such are unpatentable for obvious-type double patenting (In re Goodman (CAFC) 29 USPQ2d 2010 (12/3/1993).

3. Claims 1 – 35 rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over amended claims 1 – 9, 11 and 13 – 19 of copending application 10/650,443. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the instant case, all elements of claims 1 – 35 correspond to the amended claims of 2 – 5 and 7 – 23 of the copending application, except in the instant claims the elements "an acquisition control step of controlling the acquisition of a fifth data string containing first data required for reconstructing the second data string into the first data string" is referred in the copending claims as "generating the first string from the coded frequency components". Copending claims recite "transforming a first data string into a second data string, transforming data into frequency components”; “coding the frequency components” and “replacing the first data contained in the first data string with second data comprising spectrum coefficient information of the frequency components” which encompasses the instant application claims “transforming frequency components, wherein, in said coding step, data transformed in said transform step is coded, and the first data contains spectrum-coefficient information”. Thus copending application claims anticipates the instant claims.

Claims of the instant application are anticipated by patent claims in that the patent claims contains all the limitations of the instant application. Claims of the instant application therefore is not patentably distinct from the earlier patent claims and as such are unpatentable for obvious-type double patenting (In re Goodman (CAFC) 29 USPQ2d 2010 (12/3/1993).

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 1 – 35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Examiner requests the Applicant to define “first data string”, “second data string”, “third data string”, “fourth data string” and “fifth data string”.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. See PTO Form 892.

Applicant is urged to consider the references. However, the references should be evaluated by what they suggest to one versed in the art, rather than by their specific disclosure. If applicants are aware of any better prior art than those are cited, they are required to bring the prior art to the attention of the examiner.
